American Welding Society Offers 20% Off Online Learning Courses

FABTECH 2015 Exclusive Runs November 9-12, 2015

Miami, Fla., November 9, 2015 – For the first time ever, the American Welding Society is offering 20% off all AWS Online Learning courses as an exclusive promotion to coincide with the 2015 FABTECH show. FABTECH is North America’s largest metal forming, fabricating, welding and finishing event.

With nine online courses to choose from including the CWI Pre-Seminar, the American Welding Society provides the most comprehensive welding courses in an engaging, easy-to-use, modular format. All content is developed and updated by senior AWS instructors and staff. The seminar material is accessible at any time of the day or night, and instructors are periodically available to answer questions.

“AWS Learning courses are designed to fit the needs of today’s welding students and instructors,” said David Hernandez, director, educational development, American Welding Society. “Our courses offer concise modules, interactives, practice exercises, and quizzes that facilitate the mastery of welding concepts and formulas.”
